

Trash Talk

From the Repeal Advocacy Puppets

DON'T BE FOOLED BY PROP 1!
Repeal advocates will say almost anything to win.

"We feel that deposits act as a tax on consumers,"
National Soft Drink Association spokesman Sean McBride.

Columbia Missourian, March 29, 2002

One wise legislator responded to the tax claim this way: "Call them a tax if you want, but I wish all my taxes were 100 percent refundable, like deposits."

Professor Ed Robb, who was paid $125 an hour
by the Repeal Advocates to attack deposits, claims the city would reap a windfall in the Blue Bag program. The Tribune says, "Robb is the only analyst who touts the $300,000 figure, which depends on several unlikely factors.... The city will experience increased blue-bag costs as the volume increases. The city is more likely to realize about half of Robb's estimate."

Columbia Daily Tribune Editorial,
March 28, 2002

Corporate funding for Prop 1 comes from the Missouri Soft Drink Association (Pepsi and Coke), Kroger's, N.H. Scheppers Distributing
Co. (Anheuser-Busch), Schnuck markets,
HyVee, Nowell's, Show Me Oil Co., and MFA
Petroleum Co. The truth is that a vote for Prop 1 is a vote for litter and waste.

ON APRIL 2, VOTE "NO" ON PROP 1

Paid for by Columbians Against Throwaways
Charles Atkins, Treasurer 2700 Malibu Ct.
Columbia, MO. 65203-1426
(573) 445-5470 or (573) 445-4663
nothrowaways.coin.org

With support from the Container Recycling Institute • www.container-recycling.org

